PLEY Hotel

Set on Rue du Faubourg Saint Honoré, PLEY Hotel pays homage to the history of French radio in the neighborhood that first brought it to life. Each of the 100 modern rooms is decorated in blue and pink hues punctuated by historical photographs of the Europe 1 studios on Rue François 1er, advertisements from the 1950s for the Schaub-Lorenz or Radiovox, and the works of contemporary artist Julien Nédélec.

Head up to the seasonally themed rooftop bar to sip on a glass of rosé while the Eiffel Tower sparkles in the distance. Dining options include light snacks at the PLEYGROUND bar, exceptional meats from Boucherie Polmard at the PLEYGROUND restaurant, or next door PLEY Mersea for street food-style fish dishes by Breton chef Olivier Bellin. Recharge in the fitness room or book a beauty treatment in collaboration with the brand Before Beauty.
